

MASTER OF SOCIAL WORK
Options for a Program of Study

The University of Maine Master of Social Work Program may be completed in four semesters of full-time study, or may be taken on a part-time basis. Part-time students take a minimum of two courses per semester and must complete the program in no more than four academic years.

Advanced standing students complete the program more rapidly. The program starts with a six-week summer course of study and then students take either one year of full-time study or two years of part-time study to finish the program.
