

CMJ 593 (Topics in Communication)

Environmental Communication in International Contexts

A Graduate Course in Conjunction with the International Environmental Communication Symposium at the University of Maine

Summer Semester 2010
Three Credits: CRN 6635
Meeting Dates: May 17-18, 20-21, 24-26; Wrap-up session in June (date TBD)
Instructor: Laura Lindenefeld
Email: laura.lindenefeld@umit.maine.edu

This course provides an overview of the growing field of Environmental Communication. Course activities are linked to the four-day Symposium on Environmental Communication in International Contexts. Course participants will read key texts in environmental communication with a special focus on the scholarship of the Symposium's visiting scholars. The course consists of online interactions and face-to-face class sessions preceding and following the Symposium, and participation in the four-day Symposium during which participants will have the opportunity to meet and interact with the visiting scholars in seminars, roundtables, and discussion sessions.

The Symposium features the following visiting scholars:

Donal Carbaugh, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Anabela Carvalho, University of Minho (Portugal)
Steve Depoe, University of Cincinnati
Jennifer Good, Brock University (Canada)
Anders Hansen, University of Leicester (United Kingdom)
Mark Melsner, State University of New York
Nadarajah Srisikandarajah, University of Agricultural Sciences (Sweden)
Stacey Sowards, University of Texas, El Paso
Anne Marie Todd, San Jose State University

The Symposium is supported by the Sustainability Solutions Initiative and National Science Foundation award EPS-0904155 to Maine EPSCoR at the University of Maine; the School of Policy and International Affairs; the Margaret Chase Smith Policy Center and the Department of Communication and Journalism.

To receive information about enrolling in this course, please contact the Graduate School at 581-3291. To receive departmental permission to enroll, please email nancy.smith@umit.maine.edu

This course counts toward the Global Policy MA in SPIA

