

GRADUATE STUDENT WORKSHOP

Engaging Students

The Center for Teaching Excellence invites graduate students who are interested in teaching or are teaching assistants to participate in this workshop.

Our focus here will be student apathy: its sources, its influence on your classroom, and the application of creative strategies for countering it.

Join us for an honest and humorous workshop on how to engage students in ways that cause them to take learning seriously— and to enjoy it.

We will supply coffee and snacks.

Outside food is not allowed in the Wells Conference rooms.

Friday,
November 6, 2009
12:00 – 1:30 p.m.
Wells Conference
Center, Room 3

Please register by November 2
by phone 581-3472 or email CTE@umit.maine

Workshop facilitator:

Jeffrey St. John,
Director of the Center for Teaching
Excellence